

Hallie is a wife, mother, sister, friend, women's clothing stylist and store owner, entrepreneur, nature lover, jewelry artisan, torch bearer for the fight against ovarian cancer.

Despite her diagnosis with ovarian cancer in 2012, and the treatments that followed, Hallie never stopped living, loving, working, crafting jewelry, and writing her Facebook posts to share personal insights about ovarian cancer. Hallie lived with a fun-loving, courageous luminescence that brought good will to her life, family, friends, and the good of others.

What Hallie wanted most was to advocate and educate others about ovarian cancer awareness, warning signs, and early detection. To carry out this wish, her family created the Hallie's Hearts Endowment at the Community Foundation. Learn more at www.gtrcf.org/Hallie.
